Health Care, Housing, Transportation Main Problems Faced by Elderly Here

Health care, appropriate housing, the availability of transportation and the ability to do some kind of work as a means of retaining a sense of usefulness were all discussed at meetings across Princeton this week by its senior citizens.

These Community Forums, as they are called, are in preparation for the third White House Conference on Aging to be held in late November-early December, 1981. Three forums have been held to date, and another one is scheduled for this Wednesday at 1 at the nutrition site at Mt. Pisgah Church.

Each forum has been sponsored by a different group interested in the well-being of the elderly, and this one will be under the sponsorship of the Mercer County Nutrition Project.

The nutrition project is itself an outgrowth of the 1971 White House Conference on Aging. Seniors can call a day in advance for a reservation and transportation to the nutrition site, as it is called, and have a hot lunch for 50 cents. The primary result of the 1961 White House Conference was the Supplemental Security Income (SSI) which raised the level of the average social security payment for older persons.

Long before the actual conference takes place, however, grass roots sentiment from seniors is solicited as to what they think are the most pressing problems they confront.

Input from the Community Forums will be gathered together by the county offices on aging and transmitted to the Governor's Conference on Aging in the spring of 1981. From there the major issues and topics will be forwarded to the national conference.

Nearly 30 persons attended a Community Forum last Wednesday in Redding Circle, sponsored by the Senior Resource Center. Health care seemed to be their number one concern. Medicare, which now takes more than $9 out of each senior's social security check, covers 80 percent of the Medicare-approved doctor fees and charges.

In Princeton, it seems, doctors pay scant attention to the Medicare rate schedule and charge senior patients their regular rates. So if a medical exam is approved at, say $25, and Medicare pays 80 percent of that but the doctor charges $40 or $50, the senior patient has a larger gap to make up than is said to be so in other communities where doctors accept the Medicare schedule.

One woman complained that some doctors won't fill out Medicare forms, another said that hearing tests at $75 are not covered, nor is preventive care. "I wonder if this discussion doesn't lead us to a consideration of national health care?" queried Dot Kruger, Borough and Township welfare director serving as moderator for the Forum.

Jocelyn Helm, director of the Senior Resource Center, described how Health Maintenance Organizations work from personal experience with the one in New Brunswick associated with Rutgers University. A company or large organization makes a contribution and also deducts from the employee's salary to join the plan. Physical exams, with blood tests and x-rays cost $1, doctors are on salary and there is no waiting in the waiting room, she reported.

Planning Board Says No to Princeton Ridge Plans; University's Development Facing Stiff Opposition

One proposal for a major housing development in the Township was shot down and another–one of the largest housing proposals ever in the Township–ran into heavy fire Monday night as the Princeton Regional Planning Board began a heavy schedule of meetings to hear the two proposals before its legal time limits expire.

The casualty was Princeton Ridge, which proposed 97 houses on a 228-acre tract off Cherry Hill Road, north of Balcort Drive. Gibbs and Hill, a subsidiary of a Pittsburgh-based firm that owns the land, had based its proposal on the Township's old zoning ordinance, which required at least 1½ or 2 acres of land for each house in that area. The new ordinance, enacted two weeks ago, sets a minimum acreage requirement of three or five for that tract of land.

Princeton Ridge's chances already had been diminished by an unfavorable report from the Environmental Design and Review Committee, which listed nine significant deficiencies and 62 other objections in its report. Once the new zoning ordinance was enacted, those chances slipped to nil. Attorney Peter O'Neill called no witnesses and made just a brief statement to the board. "The applicant is well aware of the recent zoning changes," Mr. O'Neill told the planners. "It would be a charade and a waste of time to bring witnesses down here." The board's vote was 8-0.

As he left the meeting Mr. O'Neill said that his client would have to consider what action it would take next, but that a court appeal of the Planning Board's action and the Township's zoning change would be a possibility. "It's nothing personal against us," he said. "They just don't want any developments."

Encountering what could become persistent opposition was Princeton University's proposed Pretty Brook development. Those plans call for as many as 164 single-family houses on a 364-acre parcel, most of which is located north of Drakes Corner Road, between Province Line and the Great Roads and south of Cherry Valley Road.

After the University presented the first portion of what may be several nights' worth of testimony, George Easter of Drakes Corner Road spoke on behalf of the Ridge Association, representing homeowners in that area.

Pointing out that the University's proposal is inconsistent with the densities prescribed by both the master plan and the new Township zoning ordinance for the Princeton ridge area, Mr. Easter said that University officials "should be ashamed of themselves for continuing to pursue their original objectives on the narrow technical basis of whether or not they were clever enough to beat the deadline before the new zoning regulations took effect." (The new ordinance allows about half as many units on the same parcel of land.)

The Ridge Association suggested one compromise: "The University has indicated it might be willing to give its area south of Drakes Corner Road which is now subject to four-acre zoning (and a very difficult area to develop) to the Township to be added to Woodfields as open space." Mr. Easter said. If so, he indicated, the homeowners would support a plan that would group all the units in a cluster development on the north side of Drakes Corner Road.

His one qualifier, however, was that the total number of units not exceed the number allowed under the new zoning law.

The new zoning law, which has made life impossible for Princeton Ridge, is making life difficult at best for Pretty Brook and the University. The University filed its application for the development while the old ordinance was still in effect. Now the Planning Board is hearing proposals under both ordinances. If the University is rejected under the new ordinance and approved under the old one, then it has the option of going to court to seek a ruling that would apply the old ordinance to its proposal.

What that means for now is that the Planning Board is hearing hours and hours of testimony from a long procession of experts the University has assembled. The board was meeting again Tuesday night, and was planning to continue the hearing Thursday night at 8, in the Valley Road School. Completing the hearing then is no certainty. The Board is prepared to finish its deliberations next Monday, same time and place, if necessary.

Further clouding all these deliberations is the Township's announced intention of drafting a cluster ordinance, which would allow developers to bunch individual houses and create larger areas of open space around them. The University, for example, is presenting–along with its other schemes–a proposal for a super cluster, in which the houses would sit next to each other almost like townhouses and a major portion of the site would be undisturbed. But the developers already are arguing that the density of clustering under the new Township ordinance would not permit the construction of enough units to make the project profitable.

As Mr. O'Neill walked out of the meeting after the Princeton Ridge proposal was defeated, Mayor Robert Cawley of the Planning Board expressed the hope that the developers would try again once the Township works out its plans for clusters. "I'm sure we'll see you again," he said.

Outside the meeting Mr. O'Neill made that prospect sound very unlikely, except perhaps in court. "Our application was complete on April 25. Then the Planning Board, after 13 years of considering it, worked like crazy to get its new master plan written," he said. "And then the Township rushed its new zoning ordinance through."

A reporter suggested that this was a rare instance in which a governing board was being criticized for moving too quickly. "Too quickly and too arbitrarily," the lawyer replied.

Earlier, at the hearing itself, several Planning Board members indicated they would have had objections to the Princeton Ridge proposal even if the new zoning ordinance had not been enacted. "If and when the applicant comes back under the new ordinance," said Township Mayor Josie Hall, "I hope that the sewer problems are much more carefully thought out."

Another woman brought up mental health as being as important as physical health. Higher cut-off levels for PAA, the New Jersey prescription plan whereby the elderly with low incomes can get prescriptions for a flat $2, were urged to keep up with the recent higher social security payments.

Transportation was another cause of concern for these seniors. Several lamented the lack of bus service on Sundays and the inability to get to church or to visit friends. Others pointed out that the high steps on buses were hard to manage and asked for some sort of hydraulic lift.

Others said that the cutback in services offered by Crosstown '62 excluded trips for programs at Redding Circle and the Senior Resource Center. There were complaints that food at the County Nutrition Project was inadequate for the additional 10 or 15 persons who would like to be included.

"How are we reaching that person who is becoming a little bit senile but is not ready for a nursing home?" asked Mrs. Kruger. The Friendly Visitors and the Telephone Reassurance programs of the Princeton Community Homemaker-Home Health Aide Service were mentioned, and Redding Terrace residents seem to have devised their own "buddy system" of checking on each other.

New Housing Needed. But it was agreed that a new type of housing was needed, perhaps "congregate" housing which has individual and private living accommodations but offers a joint dining facility for at least one meal as well as some services, perhaps housekeeping assistance or the presence of a registered nurse or other health care professional.

The increased availability and affordability of housing for seniors was the top priority item in an earlier Community Forum held by the Princeton Senior Citizens Club at the Chestnut Street Firehouse. Denise King, staff member of the Recreation Department with special responsibilities for programs for senior residents, said that nearly 50 people attended this meeting and debated four main topics for nearly four hours.

Seniors felt that the local ordinances were an obstacle in turning existing dwellings into smaller apartments and asked that there be provisions — and funding — to enable them to renovate existing homes rather than having to seek another place.

Economic well-being was another topic taken up in depth by this group. Seniors asked that there be an adjustment in income ceilings so that persons could take part-time jobs, because the feeling of pride and usefulness that goes along with having something to do is very important.

Mandated retirement should be dropped, the seniors felt, and private industry should be given incentives to keep places for older persons — even in an unpaid capacity. Tax relief from pensions was recommended as well as special consideration for those who do continue to work.

A "viable national health plan," with provisions for health maintenance and home health aid for all older persons and disabled individuals, including custodial care, preventive programs and nutrition, was listed. In the realm of transportation, which these seniors did not have time to go into in great depth, it was simply suggested that there be increased availability at the local and national levels and that para-transport, or other means of mobility, be provided.

There are some 24 million people 65 and over in the U.S., or roughly 11 percent of the population. The increasing health and longevity of more Americans is a fact that presents significant challenges for every institution in American life.

Yet it was heartening, in the midst of these discussions on problem areas, to hear one woman say at Redding Circle "I think the elderly are treated with great respect in Princeton."

Princeton Ridge also drew several critical comments from the public. "The more you scalp that area the more problems you are going to have with drainage," said Vincent Severo of Cherry Valley Road.

Brian Quinn of 72 Arreton Road questioned the use of his street as an access road to the development. "It's proposed that Arreton Road would be widened to 50 feet. It would come within 12 feet of my bedroom. I can't say what that will do to my conjugal relations."

Jeanne Silvester of 432 State Road prefaced her remarks by observing, "I may get stoned for saying this." She then pointed out that Gibbs and Hill had owned the land since 1970 and had made various development attempts in that time. "They must care about this land," she said. "We all know this land is going to be developed sooner or later. Maybe we would be better off having someone in there who does care."

BARKEEPERS WARNED

On Sale to Minors. Faced in recent months with what it considers an inordinate number of hearings for liquor license holders accused of selling alcohol to minors, Borough Council has taken the extraordinary step of writing to all license holders in the Borough to urge them to use extra caution in making sales.

Borough Clerk Penny Carter mailed the warning letter and is making available printed forms that bartenders and waiters can ask young people of dubious age to fill out before making a transaction. A pad of the written forms can be purchased at Borough Hall for $5.

"The form makes the prospective purchaser say in writing that he or she is of age," said Mayor Robert Cawley at this week's Borough Hall press conference. "The form puts the burden on the would-be purchaser."

For the young person, misrepresentation of age to obtain liquor is an offense punishable by a fine of not less than $100 and not more than $200.

For the proprietor, an appearance before the Council almost always means a suspension of the license for several days and the loss of considerable revenue. The Borough has suspended licenses six times in the past year and a half. "The frequency of these offenses seems to have increased since the drinking age was lowered from 21," said Mr. Cawley. The age recently was increased to 19 from 18, but the incidents of illegal sales continue.

'More Than Fair.' Few of the illegal sales that come before Council have involved college students. The cases generally originate with the police investigating reports of misbehavior on the part of the underage customers.

"We had one case that involved two young ladies, 14 years old, who got sick in the movie theater," said the mayor. "Another time some young people tried to welch on a bill at a restaurant." The management called police for help in collecting the money. The police discovered that the customers were underage and filed a charge against the restaurant.

Liquor license holders complain privately about the severity of the punishment, especially when the closing involves one of their major sales days, such as a Friday. "I would say we've been more than fair," responded Mr. Cawley. "What the ABC recommends is a lot worse than what we've given."

The letter from the Borough clerk points out that the Division of Alcoholic Beverage Control recognizes as a defense against such charges written representation from the minor claiming that he or she is of legal age, so long as "an ordinary prudent person would believe him to be of age."

The written representation form available through the Borough must be filled out in part by the would-be purchases, and also signed by a witness. "It definitely takes more than just asking for an ID card," said Mr. Cawley.

Other Business. Mayor Cawley also announced that the hearing on the ordinance to extend the bicycle path along Elm Road, from Cleveland Road to Stockton Street, will be held Thursday, July 24, at 8 p.m. It would continue the bike path built two years ago atont The Great Road from Stuart Road to Cleveland Lane. Once completed, the path would eliminate the need for hazardous route school busing in the Borough, resulting in a savings of about $5,000 annually.

An assessment hearing to determine the charges to homeowners along Elm Road will be held that same night, if the ordinance is approved. The Borough ordinance would provide $44,000 in funds for the path; another $11,000 would be borne by 15 homeowners along Elm, plus the homeowners' association for Allison Road, which has property on Elm.

PCH Advances. The State Department of Community Affairs has told the Federal Department of Housing and Urban Development that "everything is lovely" with respect to sewerage capacity for the propsed housing development in the CBD by Princeton Community Housing, Mr. Cawley announced.

PCH has applied for a grant from HUD to help construct the apartment units for low income and senior citizens. A decision on the grant is expected in August or September.

Contributions Listed. The Borough's solicitation of tax-exempt organizations for contributions in lieu of taxes has resulted in two more donations, said the mayor. Aaron Lodge No. Nine of the Masons contributed $200, the first of two payments.

The Westminster Choir College made its annual contribution of $2,000.

Hospital Zoning. Mr. Cawley said that Council will meet with Township Committee at a work session on Wednesday, July 23, at Borough Hall to discuss the hospital zoning questions and the new master plan. "We hope to reach a common understanding of what the municipalities want," said the mayor. "Then we'll sit down with the hospital people to see what they want."

Although any decision to re-institute a peacetime draft is said to be a long way off, the first step toward reviving the Selective Service System begins Monday.

For the two-week period ending Saturday, August 2, young men born in the years 1960 and 1961 are required to appear at the Post Office and complete forms which will be available there.

To avoid long lines the government has asked that all those born in 1960 appear the first week, and those born in 1961 the second week. The day of the week the men should appear is determined by their month of birth. Those born in January, February, or March should register on Monday. Those with birthdays in April, May, or June should appear on Tuesday. Wednesday is the day assigned to those born in July, August, or September. Those born in the last quarter of the year should appear on Thursday.

Fridays and Saturday mornings are make-up times for those unable to appear at the time indicated by their birth dates. Those unable to register in this period have been asked by the government to do so at their earliest possible opportunity.

Hyatt will be partners in the construction of the hotel. Skidmore, Owings & Merrill are the architects.

Representatives of those firms testified before the Zoning Board, which also permitted the hotel to rise four stories, rather than the allowable three, so long as the height of the structure remains within 45 feet, the existing limit. The hotel also was permitted a floor area ratio of 37 percent, instead of the allowable 30 percent, so long as the overall Carnegie development remains within the 30 percent limit.

The Hyatt development, for which further approval must still be obtained from municipal and county agencies, represents the second major hotel development planned on Route 1.

The Forrestal Center, the 1,600-acre multiple use development already being developed further north on Route 1 on land owned by Princeton University, has secured tentative approval for 400 hotel rooms, 300 of which are planned for use in a conference center, which is scheduled for completion in the spring of next year. Last week representatives of the Forrestal Center sought approval from the Plainsboro Planning Board for an additional 150 hotel rooms, thereby allowing a total of 250 rooms for a proposed commercial hotel.

Hearing Set. The proposal was discussed at a work session and will be the subject of a public hearing this Monday. Robert Wolfe, the general manager of the Forrestal Center, said that plans to actually construct a hotel were not imminent.

The proposed hotel site is a 28-acre tract bordered by the largely completed Forrestal Village housing development and Route 1, between the State Police barracks and the Forrestal Road underpass. The zoning change is being sought, Mr. Wolfe explained, because "a 100-room hotel is an uneconomical number."

Homeowner's Lament

Rain, Rain
Come and stay,
We Want Grass
Instead of Hay

Green lawns have turned a sickly shade of brown in recent weeks under the unrelenting glare of the sun. It isn't nice to look at, but then for those not trying to keep up with watering the lawn, there is nothing to have to mow either.

Last Friday night's showers helped a little bit, if they happened to hit your area, but much more rain is needed, and there is none, other than the usual possible late afternoon thunderstorm, forecast for the immediate future. And for an added attraction this week, the humidity will join high temperatures (low 90's) to make things pretty uncomfortable.

WHITE IS RIGHT

For Epstein's Building. Despite a negative recommendation from the Environmental Design Review Committee, the Princeton Planning Board last week unanimously approved the request by Epstein's department store to paint white the red-brick structure in the Princeton Shopping Center formerly occupied by Bamberger's.

The EDRC had recommended that the request be disapproved, because it feared that the paint could trigger requests for other stores to be painted other colors, creating a checkerboard pattern on the Shopping Center.

The Planning Board ruled, however, that the white paint would be acceptable so long as the building's management maintained the quality of the paint covering. The planners also approved requests for variances to permit larger signs and a larger canopy on the building. The store, which is now vacant, is expected to be occupied by Epstein's by the end of summer.

The Planning Board also approved a minor subdivision that permits the Princeton Day School to sell 88 acres of its property between the Great Road and Pretty Brook Road to Inca, a group of investors.

Approval was subject to two conditions—that the proposed bicycle path between Pretty Brook and the Great Road be part of any future subdivision of the property; and that rights of way be reserved for any future extension of Pretty Brook or the Great Road.

PDS GRADUATE DIES

In Car Crash. John E. Sacks-Wilner, 17, who graduated cum laude from Princeton Day School last year and was to enter Princeton University in the fall, was killed last week in a car crash in Trenton.

The son of Trenton ophthalmologist Dr. Ewin P. Sacks-Wilner, the youth was hurled to his death from a convertible, as he was driving home from Princeton at 5 a.m. last Wednesday. His car hit a tree, overturned and crashed into the front of a newspaper delivery van on Sullivan Way near the Trenton Psychiatric Hospital--less than a mile from his home.

The driver of the van, John M. Jaremback, 31, of Trenton, was treated for minor injuries at Mercer Medical Center, the same hospital where Mr. Sacks-Wilner was pronounced dead at 5:52 a.m.

In addition to his parents, he is survived by three brothers, Steven, James and Richard, all of Trenton; his maternal grandmother, Mrs. Herbert Bell of Trenton; his maternal grandfather, Dr. Martin Fier of Trenton, and an aunt and uncle, also of Trenton.

Funeral services were held Friday from Orland's Ewing Memorial Chapel on Pennington Road, the Rabbi Donald D. Crain and Cantor Irving Feller of Adath Israel Congregation officiating. Burial was in Greenwood Cemetery. Contributions in his memory may be made to the the Inter University Center in Tokyo, and each year at least one distinguished Japanese scholar is in residence at Princeton.

The other bequest amounting to $652,000 came to the University from the estate of Caroline Newton, a friend of Princeton who died in 1975. The bequest, which represents the proceeds from the sale of real estate, will support the Caroline Newton Memorial Book Fund in the Humanities.

Caroline Newton was born in 1893 in Berwyn, Pa., and attended Bryn Mawr College before studying with Sigmund Freud in Vienna. Newton was a trustee of the New School for Social Research in New York City and was the first woman member of the International Psychoanalytical Society.

An ardent admirer of Thomas Mann, Newton became a friend of the writer in the late 1930s, just before he accepted a position as lecturer in the humanities at Princeton University. Her interest in his writings led her to play a key role in making the Princeton University Library a center for the study of Mann's works.

Her many contributions to the library began in 1961 with a large collection of letters, telegrams and cards written by Mann and subsequently included the gift of her own extensive Thomas Mann collection. Among the other valuable donations to the library were original editions of the works of Goethe and William Blake.

TOWNHOUSE LIVING: McCosh House, at the left, and the 10 townhouses on the right, separated by a private road, form Markham Square. Designed by The Hillier Group and developed by its subsidiary, Design Interface, the complex is expected to be ready for occupancy by September 1.

TOWNHOUSES GO UP

On Markham Road. After two and a half years of planning, approvals, appeals, and construction, the Markham Square townhouses are about to meet the public. The complex of ten townhouses and the historic McCosh House, which they surround, will be completed by Labor Day.

Designed by The Hillier Group, Architects of Princeton and developed by its subsidiary, Design Interface, each of the 2,800 square foot townhouses contains three bedrooms, two and a half baths, dining room, family room, kitchen, and a one and a half story high living room.

Additionally, each has a basement, two-car garage, laundry room, outdoor deck, private walled garden, and full air conditioning. All of the townhouses face on a decoratively paved and landscaped private street.

The McCosh House, built for a former president of Princeton University, is the major structure on the property. One of two remaining houses by the renowned San Francisco architect A. Page Brown, it is being completely renovated and mechanically modernized.

A TIMELY QUOTE FROM PRESIDENT CLEVELAND REGARDING THE "PANIC OF 1893"

"At times like the present, when the evils of unsound finance threaten us, the speculator may anticipate a harvest gathered from the misfortune of others, the capitalist may protect himself by hoarding or may even find profit in the fluctuations of values; but the wage earner - the first to be injured by a depreciated currency - is practically defenseless. He relies for work upon the ventures of confident and contented capital. This failing him, his condition is without alleviation, for he can neither prey on the misfortunes of others nor hoard his labor."

This quote is from a message from President Cleveland to a special session of Congress August 8, 1893 and was reprinted by the Wall Street Journal on October 20, 1933 commenting that this passage was particularly timely due to similar problems that occurred during the Great Depression.

This quote from a period in American Economic history known as the "Panic of 1893" is as applicable to the 1980's. President Cleveland's statement is simple. The average American is the first to loose his job in a recession and the last to be hired back after it is over. His savings have always been depleted by inflation and at times he has lost everything. Throughout history he has received the worst of both economic trends.

If you do not look after your own survival don't expect anyone else to. History does repeat. The silver market crash of 1980 was not unique. A silver market crash preceeded the "Panic of 1893" and in 1929-32 it again collapsed. Real estate values plummeted, the stock market crashed by 90 percent and interest rates went from 2.5 percent to over 7 percent and crashed to 1.5 percent while 50 percent of the Banks were forced into bankruptcy. Two of the few things that increased in value while everything was collapsing were coffins and gold.

The key to the future still lies hidden in the past.

CHITICS CRITICIZED

By Testing Service. The Princeton-based Educational Testing Service, which has been under fire in recent years from critics who charge that the agency is not responsive to egalitarian principles of higher education, has responded with one of its most forceful counter-attacks.

In the 1979 ETS annual report, which has just been issued, ETS president William W. Turnbull charges that many testing critics, "in pressing their case against the misuse of test results..., have ascribed to test scores an importance in the eyes of admission officers that is out of all proportion to the truth."

In advocating their cause, Mr. Turnbull said, critics "run the risk of increasing the very 'test anxiety' among students that they decry, inducing a waste of consumer dollars on expensive coaching, and encouraging high-scoring students in the unwarranted belief that their test scores alone will guarantee admission to the college of their choice. Intellectual debate has been shunted aside and replaced by political advocacy."

PHS '75 to Hold Reunion

Princeton High School Class of 1975 will hold its 5th Reunion on Saturday, August 30, at the Elks Club on Route 518. Tickets are $18 per person, and reservations must be made by Friday, August 1.

For more information call John Madden, 155 Bertrand Drive, at 924-2983.

Ralph Nader-sponsored groups, allied with the leadership of the National Education Association, have recently challenged the role of tests in the nation's schools.

In an apparent counter move, ETS has joined sponsors of its four major admissions programs to propose a set of principles, including general guidelines as well as specific operational proposals, to guide future development of standardized tests used in admissions. They include increased publication of test content and visible procedures for eliminating test bias and enabling test takers to have their scores verified.

Critics Challenged. The guidelines also call for procedures to increase the appropriate use of scores and to discourage misuse, for giving the test takers as much useful information as possible about their performance on the tests, and for giving them a voice in the design of the program.

In his report, Mr. Turnbull also challenged charges raised by critics in the following areas of controversy:

Test Bias. Research studies, he said, show that standardized admissions tests predict student performance equally well for minority and majority groups. "A difference in mean scores between groups simply cannot be attributed to bias in the test content without checking into whether the predictions hold true in subsequent performance. In fact, they do... The tests do not create the inequality; they reveal it."

Effectiveness of Admissions Tests. Turnbull noted that the tests "provide universities and colleges with useful information about the developed ability of students to succeed in their studies. Research has shown time and again that high school grades and standardized admissions test scores are the two best predictors of college performance, that grades are somewhat better predictors than test scores, and that the two combined are better still. If admissions officers had not seen evidence of this truth on their own campuses, they would not require the tests."

Family Income and Test Scores. "The relationship between family income and a variety of indicators of educational achievement, including grades, is a fact of life in our society," Mr. Turnbull said. "But students from all income levels obtain the full range of SAT scores, and one-third of the candidates from families with an annual income below $6,000 place in the top half of all SAT candidates. Despite claims to the contrary, test scores still correlate more highly with grades than with family income."

DECISION POSTPONED

Pending Court Decision. Township Committee held a public hearing last Wednesday on an ordinance setting two speed zones along Stuart Road.

Because of pending litigation brought by a resident who thinks the speed limit should be less than the Department of Transportation survey recommends, Committee tabled a decision until August 13. The suit is scheduled to be heard by Judge Jerome A. Moore in Superior Court, Trenton, on Friday, July 25, and a decision will be handed down sometime after that.

Speed limits on all roads are set by state statute at 50 mph, or at 25 mph in business and residential zones. Municipalities that want something in between for a particular road must get a DOT traffic survey and recommendation of just what speed limit to ordinance. The Township did exactly that, and got a recommendation of 30 mph on the section between The Great Road and Great Road East and 40 mph on the longer stretch between Great Road East and Cherry Hill Road.

Stuart Road is presently not posted for any speed limit, and Robert Solomon of 47 Hardy Drive, plaintiff in the case, says that Township police – and Township Committee -- are assuming a 50 mph limit. Mr. Solomon contends that the area is residential, that it conforms to the definition of a residential area upheld by at least one court decision and that the speed is thus limited to 25 mph by statute.

He asked Committee to postpone adoption of its ordinance until after the decision by the court, pointing out that whether the ordinance in effect raises the limit from 25 to 30 and 40 mph -- as he believes -- or lowers it from 50 depends on the outcome of the case. The question seems to hinge on whether the frontage of the lot or the frontage of building is used to establish the 300 feet between properties that is the criterion for a residential area.

Robert Abernathy of Stuart Road presented an analysis of stopping distances at different speeds and the distance at which a car parked in a Stuart driveway is able to see a car coming down the road. "Stuart Road was never intended to be driven fast on," he said. He and Mr. Solomon presented a petition from homeowners for a 25 mph limit and cited new development that would in time go up in the new road now being built in a wide curve from Stuart to Cherry Hill.

False Alarms a Problem. Township Committee also heard a report prepared by Lt. Anthony Pinelli of Township Police at the request of Chief Frederick Porter on the number of false alarms coming in on burglar alarms wired into police headquarters. In the period between January 1 and April 30 there were 12 false alarms per day or a total of 1,465 false alarms, Lt. Pinelli said. This is in contrast to approximately 6½ false alarms last year.

Of the 12 per day, 7-8 can be attributed to subscriber error, another three to individuals testing out their alarms and sometimes forgetting to tell police that they are doing so, and one to problems in the telephone or public utility lines that will set an alarm off. Lt. Pinelli has made a rough estimate that each false alarm takes about 25 minutes of police time to ascertain that the alarm is indeed a false one. Police, Township Committee and Administrator Joseph R. Nini will be studying the problem to see if they can come up with a better solution and one that does not cost so heavily in police time.

Mayor Josie Hall announced the appointment of James W. Hughes of 35 Clover Lane as the second alternate to the Zoning Board of Adjustment and Carol Caskey, the North Road, to the Board of Assessors.

CLUSTER, O-R ZONES

At Committee Work Session. The main item on Township Commitee's agenda this Wednesday at 8 in Township Hall is the continuation of a public hearing on the ordinance creating two contiguous Office-Research zones in the northwest Township.

The area lies in Princeton University's land on which it hopes to build 165 houses. It also is in the two newly created residential zones of 3 and 4 acre minimum lot requirements. Earlier this year, at the Planning Board's request, Committee ordinanced a residential option in the existing Office-Research zone along Mt. Lucas and Bunn Drive. The plan is to keep the residential option in these two new O-R zones as well.

Committee continued the public hearing on this ordinance pending more specific comment from the Planning Board on matters of bulk and floor-area ratio and whether to eliminate "office" use and make the zone just for "research." The Planning Board has not had an opportunity to consider these things, Mayor Josie Hall says, and therefore she expects the public hearing will be continued again.

The meeting this Wednesday will become largely a work -session, she said, devoted to discussion of new cluster regulations and the creation of still another Office-Research zone, this one on a triangular parcel off Cherry Valley Road not far from

Planning Board Attorney Allen Porter is expected to come before Committee at this work session with drafts of ordinances for cluster regulations and this O-R 3 zone.

$894 IS STOLEN

From Somerset Farm Store. The Somerset Farm Store, 55 State Road, was entered Sunday morning and $894.34 in cash and coins stolen from a safe.

According to police, the store was entered between 1 and 5:55 a.m. by a thief who removed a cover from a roof vent which led to a small back room. The door to the safe was removed by cutting the hinges.

In addition, a large cabinet containing cartons of cigarettes was forced open but none were taken.

Sgt. Samuel Bianco is continuing the initial investigation by Ptl. James Vandermark and Ptl. Robert Buchanan. Police said that the safe door was apparently carried from the scene.

A sterling silverware place setting for six plus extra pieces were stolen last week from the kitchen of a Dempsey Avenue home. Also taken was a sterling necklace with a medallion from a bedroom.

There were no signs of forced entry. Police have not received a value for the missing items.

There was no forced entry into a Red Oak Row apartment that was entered last week between 9 a.m. and 6:20 p.m.

The victim reported a sweater taken from a closet and $14 missing. Her total loss was $114.

Borough Population Increases 3.3%

At 24 minutes past midnight last Saturday a Census Bureau computer – working overtime for obvious reasons – rattled and gargled and spit out the preliminary Census counts for the Borough of Princeton. By Tuesday a copy of the computer printout was at Borough Hall.

The results were not much different than they were 10 years ago, when the last complete census was taken. According to the computer's preliminary count for the Borough, which is subject to change, the 1980 population is 12,713 – that's 402 heads more than in 1970. The percentage increase is 3.3.

The number of Housing units in the Borough increased by 1.8 percent, from 3,274 in 1970 to 3,333 units this year. Since the increase in the number of people was slightly greater than the increase in the number of housing units, one might think the population per household would also have increased. But it did not. In 1970 an average of 2.46 persons lived in each household. This year's preliminary figures show 2.36 persons per household.

That paradox might be explained by the vacancy rate. This year the Census recorded 180 vacant housing units in the Borough. But the comparable figure for 1970 is not listed.

Township officials said Tuesday they had not yet received their figures.

The intruder removed eggs from a refrigerator and smashed them on the floor and spilled a bowl of catfood. Upstairs, he spilled bottles of perfume and suntan oil on a bureau and mirror. In a rear bedroom, he removed two swords from their scabbards and apparently used one to slash a canopy over the bed. Police found it on the bed. The second sword was left in a chair in a downstairs hallway.

The victim told police that she was sure she had locked her door before leaving. Ptl. John Clausen investigated.

A Texas resident, Barbara Carr reported the theft Saturday of $32 from her handbag.

She told police that she had left her purse on a counter in her room at the Princeton Inn Dorm and had gone to visit a friend down the hallway. Ninety minutes later she discovered the theft.

GUARD IS CHARGED

With Theft. A Trenton resident who was employed by Westminster Choir College as a security guard has been charged by police with two thefts at the school.

Det. William Fitch has charged Willie A. Matthews, 30, with the theft Thursday of $20 from one student and $15 from another. Their dormitory room had been locked but police reported no signs of forced entry. The victims were attending a summer session at the school, police said.

The same day, police reported that $234 was stolen from a locked file cabinet at the school and again there were no signs of any forced entry. While Ptl. Randy Sutton was investigating the above theft, there was a report that a jack and other tools had been removed from an unlocked small foreign car parked in a WCC lot. The wires from the car's distributor had been pulled loose, police added.

In another theft reported Friday at the school, $60 was taken from a student's room. Again, no forced entry.

Five warmup suits valued at $50 each were stolen Friday from a rack at the Running Start store, 2 Chambers Street, and a Township resident listed the theft of a $195 leather jacket and $60 pair of sunglasses from a saddlebag on his motorcycle while it was parked Sunday in a private lot on lower Nassau Street.

While the victim was sleeping, an intruder entered an unlocked ground floor window in Spelman Hall on the university campus and left early Friday morning with $375 worth of new stereo equipment.

The wheel of a car of a Princeton resident was stolen last week while it was parked in a university lot next to the old IDA building off Prospect Avenue. It was valued at $125.

Pistol Pilfered. A replica of a German Luger pistol, valued at $50, was shoplifted from Nassau Hobby, 142 Nassau Street, and a soda vending machine in a Nassau Street office yielded approximately $80 in coins when it was pried open on Thursday.

There were two wallet thefts. An employee of the Graduate School lost $40 when she left her purse unattended on a shelf in her office, and a Linden Lane resident lost $20 when her wallet was removed from her shoulder bag, which she had left in her rear yard.

In the Township, Charles W. Biddle of Rosedale Road reported the theft Thursday of his $220 chain saw from the "Dogwood Hill" construction site on Mt. Lucas Road. Mr. Biddle told police that he had been cutting firewood and had left the saw at 12:30. When he returned at 3, it was gone.

A brown plastic case containing 22 eight-track stereo tapes valued at $200 was stolen from the locked car of a Mulberry Row resident while it was parked between 1:20 to 8:20 a.m. in a PCV lot. The car had not been forced open, police said.

David Perry of Magee Apartments returned from a vacation to discover that his car's $50 battery had been stolen in June. Police commented that the hood of the car--parked in a Magee lot--could be opened from the outside.

In a larceny that could not have been totally unexpected, a Trenton resident reported the theft of a $100 camera and two personal checks from his locker at the Community Park pool complex. Police report that the victim told them that he was unable to lock his locker and left the key in the lock. When he returned two and a half hours later, the camera and checks were missing.

But being prepared doesn't always work, either. A Township resident left the Public Library last week only to find the two wheels of his 10-speed bicycle had been stolen and the bike's frame still chained to a post.

In a theft that wasn't quite a theft a Leavitt Lane resident reported that his unlocked bicycle had been stolen by a thief who left another bike in its place. Police said that the replacement had also been stolen.

A box containing an assortment of silverware was found Saturday night at 8:30 by someone who was picking berries from bushes in a wooded area off lower Nassau Street. Police identified the silver as that taken June 4 during the burglary of a home on Harrison Street and returned it to its owner.

TEENAGERS CHARGED
With Marijuana Possession. Two 17-year old Township youths have been charged by Borough police with possession of under 25 grams of marijuana and one of the two with possession of cocaine. Both have been released to their parents and will be processed by the Borough juvenile officer.

They were stopped Sunday in their car on Wiggins Street for a motor vehicle violation by Ptl. Randy Sutton. The officer, during the stop, allegedly observed a hashish pipe on the car's rear seat. Later, police confiscated a small amount of marijuana.

A 17-year old Borough youth was arrested at 12:29 Saturday morning by Ptl. Robert Mucciarelli and Ptl. Chris Boutote inside the WaWa Market on University Place where he was allegedly inhaling aerosol gas from two whipped cream cans.

The aerosol gas reportedly has the same effect as laughing gas. The youth faces shoplifting and other charges from the Borough juvenile officer.

TRESPASSERS CAUGHT
On University Campus. Princeton University security members have charged two with trespassing on the university campus.

Martin J. White, 23, of Trenton was apprehended at 2:43 a.m. last Wednesday in Holder Hall and taken to Borough police headquarters. Less than two hours earlier--at 12:55--he had been caught trespassing inside Cleveland Tower on the Graduate School campus. He is scheduled to appear in court August 6.

A habitual offender, James Carrow, 30, no known address, was apprehended last week inside the Engineering Quadrangle. He was taken to police headquarters and charged by University Security.

SETTLEMENT REACHED

In Hunting Dispute. A Robbinsville fur broker, Robert Kubiak has won a $5,000 settlement from Township Ptl. Anthony Gaylord, whom he had charged with malicious prosecution.

The agreement in the civil complaint, which was heard in State Superior Court before Judge Daniel O'Donnell, was reached last month just after opening remarks to the jury. Mr. Kubiak had been seeking $25,000.

The suit stemmed from an incident in October, 1976 in which Ptl. Gaylord arrested Mr. Kubiak for hunting deer in the Township during bow and arrow season. Although Mr. Kubiak said he had insisted at the time that he had received previous permission from the owner to hunt the unposted property on Stuart Road, he testified that Ptl. Gaylord had handcuffed him.

The incident was the most recent of several run-ins he had had with Ptl. Gaylord over hunting on Township property, he said. Mr. Kubiak charged Ptl. Gaylord as a private citizen.

At the time of the incident, Mr. Kubiak operated his own taxidermy shop which mounted a couple hundred deer a year. He was represented by Trenton attorney Jerrold Kamensky.

TWO ARE FINED

For Red Light Violations. Two Princeton residents were fined Monday in Borough court by Judge Philip Carchman for red light violations.

Paying $20 each were William M. Land, 217 Harrison Street, and Ruth B. Wilker, 291 Russell Road. Daniel W. Hulik, 11 Barnett Road, Lawrenceville, paid $20 for an improper turn, while Virginia Hackney, 41 Spring Street, was fined $10 for failing to yield the right of way to a pedestrian.

13 BIRTHS LISTED

By Medical Center. In the week ending July 11, there were eight boys and five girls born at the Medical Center at Princeton.

Sons were born to Joseph and Eileen Fallon, 141 Washington Street, Rocky Hill; Gordon and Helen Crater, 51 Cranbury Road, Princeton Junction, both on July 5; Dale E. and Alison Tracey, 16 Bruno Crescent, Hamilton, July 7; James L. and Frances Caldwell, 272 Ward Avenue, Bordentown, July 8;

Also to Dennis R. and Marion Sullivan, 247 Sherwood Avenue, Mercerville; Raphael and Theresa Ko, 39 Douglass Drive, RD 4, both on July 9; Raymond and Christine Behrman, A-2 Abbington Drive, East Windsor, July 10; and Jeffrey and Nancy Scott, 419 Farnsworth, Bordentown, July 11.

Daughters were born to Thomas and Lucinda Muehlheisen, 98 Pennington-Rocky Hill Road, Hopewell; T. Kerry and Elizabeth Carter, 2 Iris Drive, East Windsor, July 7; David and Rose Spiro, 325 West Upper Ferry Road, West Trenton; Leonard and Marjorie Ariff, 286 Clamer Road, both on July 8; John and Joan Maxey, 135 Elizabeth Street, Bordentown, July 10.

PICNIC PLANNED

For Anderson Supporters. Supporters of John Anderson are invited to an "Old-Time -- Good-Time for John B. Anderson" at the Johnson Park School grounds on Rosedale Road, on Wednesday, July 23, from 4:30 to dusk. Soft drinks and beer will be provided; participants should provide their own box supper.

This will be an old-time picnic with games and prizes, stump oratory, and barbershop and blue grass music. Tickets are $5 for adults and $3 for children under 12. This will be the first large summer activity in the Mercer County area of the Anderson for President campaign.

At the first organizational meeting of the Princeton area volunteers, Scott Corwin, Susan Blaxill, Jim and Marilyn Steeg, and Pat Cherry were appointed district coorindators in the Township and Jackie Rogers and Astrida Apse in the Borough.

Interested volunteers for work on the picnic or in the campaign should call the Central New Jersey Anderson Headquarters on 921-6700 or stop by the office at 8 Palmer Square East.

Lawrence Backers Organize. A Lawrence Township group was formed to support the candidacy of John B. Anderson for President. Mrs. Mary C. Tanner, a member of the Lawrence Township Council, was named chairman. Mrs. Joan Maruhnic, Mercer County Coordinator for the Unity Campaign, discussed the plans at the local, statewide, and national levels, for the Presidential election in November. More volunteers are welcome.

For further information, please call Mrs. Tanner at 921-8696 or the Central NJ Headquarters in Princeton at 921-6700.

DAY CAMPS AVAILABLE

For Youngsters at YMCA. Space is available in the Summer Discoveries day camp sponsored by the YMCA. The camp is for boys and girls ages 6 to 12.

The typical camp day includes swim instruction at the YM-YWCA pool, crafts, nature study and sports on the grounds of the Johnson Park School. During the two week sessions, the children will go on field trips and have an overnight. Sessions will be held until August 22.

For pre-school children, the YMCA has four half-day programs, two in the morning and two in the afternoon for 4-6 year olds and 2½-4 year olds. Swimming, organized play and crafts make up the program. Pre-schoolers can come to camp two, three or five days a week.

For information call the YMCA, 924-4825.

VANDALS AT WORK

Cherry Bombs and Tire Slashings. The car of a Kingston resident was damaged last week by vandals, who attached cherry bombs to its windshield.

Police believe two powerful M-80 "cherry bombs" were affixed with putty to the windshield of the car while it was parked at the Mobil service station at the corner of Nassau and Olden Streets. The loud explosion blew a four-inch hole in the windshield, embedded glass fragments in the upholstery and damaged the dashboard and electrical system.

The occupants of a patrol car had heard the explosion early Thursday morning but could not find its source. The vandalism was discovered at 2:30 a.m. by foot patrolman Robert Mucciarelli.

Another explosive charge had been attached to the rear windshield, police said, but they believe the vandals did not have time to set it off.

Atomic Energy; The Views of David Lilienthal

David E. Lilienthal
A reassessment and a new start are needed

Within weeks after the nuclear accident at Three Mile Island had touched off a heated controversy and focused the attention of the American people on fundamental questions of safety in atomic power and its place as an energy source, David E. Lilienthal, a Battle Road resident, set out to write a simple, straight-forward book on his experiences with and his views on the atom. The result is "Atomic Energy: A New Start," just published by Harper & Row.

Mr. Lilienthal was a founding director and chairman of TVA and the first head of the Atomic Energy Commission. An early advocate of peaceful atomic energy, he was one of the architects in 1946 of a plan for international control of atomic energy and atomic weapons that was approved by nearly every country except Russia.

He was also among the first to raise warnings about safety, health hazards and the problems of atomic waste disposal in 1963. That same year he testified before a congressional committee in opposition to the proposed location of an atomic energy plant within the Borough of Queens, N.Y.

But Mr. Lilienthal is a realist who believes there is no turning back the clock of scientific discovery or the advances in the standard of living made possible by those discoveries. He writes from the perspective of his boyhood in Indiana at the turn of the century before electrification and from the perspective of one who has traveled the globe in the course of a long career in the energy and resource development field. He sees world poverty as being keyed to the availability of energy and argues that "No American energy policy makes sense unless it takes into account the hopes and needs of all peoples."

The Need For Nuclear Power. In this concise, clear and readable book, just under 120 pages long, he takes up briefly the various forms of energy; from coal, an essential source which he says may hold even greater health hazards than nuclear, to hydroelectric power -- a possibility in the Northeast states –, to solar – "a new and exciting field" but still in its infancy –, and conservation.

"Persistent and hopeful as we must be about conservation and the avoidance of waste, we must realistically take into account the established and cherished habits of energy use of the American people and the motorized dynamics of our entire economy," he writes.

Mr. Lilienthal feels that "the very availability of energy – especially electric energy -- itself creates an every expanding demand for more energy." Pointing out that the U.S. relies heavily on nuclear power now to keep the economy going, he asserts, "We cannot reject out of hand any possibility, including nuclear power. But it must be made safe." On that point he is emphatic.

He says that the questions and problems raised by Three Mile Island, the shutting down of many existing plants and the delays in licensing new ones, have in effect brought about a moratorium with which to reassess the difficulties inherent in mankind's biggest scientific discovery to date and to make a fresh start.

He criticizes the early advocates of atomic energy -- himself included -- for "rushing headlong" to a committment to a single method of producing electricity, the light water fission conversion method. This method not only poses radiation hazards in the handling and disposal of fuel rods, but also produces plutonium, the basic ingredient in thousands of atomic warheads and an essential material for the making of additional atomic weapons the world over. He believes that because of the apparent economic advantages, "we tried to move too rapidly, that not enough time was taken to test reactor ideas and designs that were radically different from the light water design that quickly preempted the market -- alternatives that might have provided us with greater safety and certainly far less complexity."

A New Approach. Mr. Lilienthal describes himself as a pragmatist, but he is also an optimist. He thinks the time is ripe now for an all-out effort to find a better design. He suggests a "New Atom Corporation," chartered by Congress along the lines of Comsat or the National Science Foundation with public and private stockholders and empowered to carry on the research and development of a better method.

He is utterly confident that a better method will be found but thinks it may not come from the scientific community. Geniuses though they may be, physicists and technicians are trained in the scientific method, which tends, he says, to recognize only one answer as the "truth" of the problem. Rather, answers may come from different quarters entirely--perhaps from the automotive or the airplane industries which have been dealing with questions of public safety for longer than the "adolescent" nuclear industry.

Lilienthal

Finding a less hazardous method may take years, he acknowledges, and in the meantime every effort should be made to "establish and enforce new and exacting standards of safety and system management." Mr. Lilienthal argues that radiation is a fact of life and that low level radiation is not unduly hazardous either to the environment or to people.

The "furious" radiation that takes place in the core of a reactor and is present at enormous levels in spent fuel rods is another matter. He suggests that until a more satisfactory method of disposing of these spent fuel rods is found that the "temporary" solution of placing them in water at the reactor site avoids problems such as inter-state transportation. He points out that the real bulk of nuclear waste comes from military sources created in the course of producing bombs.

For An Informed Public. Mr. Lilienthal criticizes "the Atomic Establishment" for its complacency on matters of safety and plant design, the AEC and the Joint Congressional Committee on Atomic Energy for being promoters of the very industry they were set up to regulate, and the arms control experts for the patronizing jargon which has so alarmed and befuddled the man in the street.

He offers a neat two-page description of how an atomic reactor works, and another equally clear and simple description of what went wrong at Three Mile Island, to prove his point that "the general public needs to have some idea of what atomic energy is and how it works if we are going to have a sensible and democratic long-term program of nuclear development."

He thinks that much of the fear and helplessness in people's minds is due to a nuclear arms race that is out of control and the danger of an atomic war. He calls for a renewal of the earlier effort to control and eliminate nuclear weapons, and he urges cooperation among nations to solve the energy problem.

"Our future energy policy may be a technical success, but it will be a moral and political failure if it aims only at filling our gas tanks and keeping our thermostat settings high," he warns. "Unless we make a major contribution toward easing the world's energy shortages--instead of merely satisfying our own needs--we may be creating for our children's children a life of constant crises and chronic insecurity."

Gazing out over his garden this week prior to departing for Martha's Vineyard, where he wrote the book last summer, Mr. Lilienthal said he hopes it will have wide readership. Particularly in Princeton, which represents the atomic past in the contributions of men like Einstein, Bohr, Oppenheimer and Wigner, and the future--work now being done at the Plasma Physics Lab. In between is the man in the street, and in Princeton an articulate fellow, he says.

The book is dedicated to Einstein, "whose awesome scientific discoveries have shaken the foundations of our world." The author also cites another Princeton resident, Dr. Henry Smyth, who expressed a conviction Mr. Lilienthal shares: "that the ultimate decisions about atomic energy must be made not by scientists but by those who in our society decide all major public issues."

Tire Slasher. Township police are searching for a person who slashed the tires of four parked cars on Longview Drive last week and one on Dodds Lane. All had been parked in the owners' driveway.

One victim had two tires cut on the driver's side ($35 each); a second two rear tires slashed ($50 each); a third two rear tires ($45 each) and a fourth all four tires of his small foreign car. They were valued at $140. Most of the tires had a four to five-inch slash on the sidewall, police said.

The Dodds Lane victim had two cars parked side-by-side in his driveway. Two tires on each car were slashed. Replace value of the four: $240.

Two of the incidents took place during the weekend; the others earlier in the week.

CYCLIST, CAR COLLIDE

At Shopping Center. Fifteen-year old Denise Fishburne, 7 Caldwell Drive, received contusions of the arm Saturday when her bicycle collided with a car at the Princeton Shopping Center.

Miss Fishburne told Ptl. John Clausen that she was unable to stop and struck a car operated by Alana M. Schwartz, 57 Wittmer Court, Ptl. Clausen noted in his report that the front brake of her bicycle was not operating properly. There were no charges.

COMMITTED TO HOSPITAL

For Creating Disturbances. Stephen McShane, 30, who has no known address, has been committed to Trenton State Hospital, after he created disturbances last week at the First National Bank and a Nassau Street church.

Ptl. William Hunter and Ptl. John Reading responded to a 12:41 call Friday from the bank manager, reporting that a man in the bank was acting crazy and they needed help in restraining him.

Police said that McShane was using offensive language and they believed he was about to disrobe when the officers arrived.

The previous evening, police had received a report from an excited caller that a man had walked into the church during a service there and had completely disrobed.

When Ptl. Randy Sutton and Ptl. Anthony Federico arrived, they found a person--later identified as McShane--seated inside, completely nude. He was taken to police headquarters, issued a summons for open lewdness, and released.

LET'S TALK ABOUT

WHY TREES SHED LEAVES IN SUMMER
with Sam DeTuro
Woodwinds Associates

For several weeks many varieties of shade trees have been shedding leaves. This has been particularly true of shallow-rooted maples. If leaf drop is moderate, do not be concerned. With the onset of hot, dry weather, this is nature's way of balancing root and crown when there is insufficient soil moisture to supply all the leaves the tree put forth during this particularly cool, wet spring.

When leaf fall is heavy on any tree, however, ask a tree specialist to look for the cause. It could be due to an attack by aphids, mites, scale insects, or leaf fungi.

Excessive leaf shedding reduces a tree's vigor, such trees should be watered well during dry spells. Mulches conserve soil moisture and prevent roots from being "cooked" by the hot sun. Feeding is always recommended. WOODWINDS uses liquid invigoration widely during summer months. This means injecting liquid nutrients into the root area, and serves the following essential purposes:

Providing the tree with a quick stimulant.

Providing long-lasting supplies of nutrients to off-set the weakening effects of leaf loss.

Getting water directly to the root area.

Breaking up compacted soil around the roots.

NOTE: In watering a tree during dry periods, WOODWINDS reminds homeowners to water at the dripline (or outer crown limit) and beyond. This is where the feeder roots are, and water is absorbed through these tiny roots. If the soil is caked dry, avoid water runoff from a hose by lightly sprinkling the area first, gradually, the moisture will soak down. Then, let the hose run very slowly for several hours over the outer root area. Remember: It does little good to water a tree at the trunk.

WOODWINDS is always happy to answer any questions concerning your valuable trees and shrubs. Please call us at 924-3500

The cards, made available by the Princeton Area Branch of the Women's International League for Peace and Freedom, may be signed and then mailed to President Carter. They specifically urge no further steps be taken toward reinstituting the draft.

The Women's International League for Peace and Freedom, has, since its inception 65 years ago opposed military conscription and views the current program of registering young men as a forerunner of the draft and ultimately a mobilization for U.S. intervention in other areas of the world.

The Princeton Chapter of Toastmasters will meet Thursday at 8 at the United Methodist Church, Nassau & Vandeventer Streets. Toastmasters is a non-profit, nonpartisan, nonsectarian education organization providing its members with opportunities to improve their abilities to speak in public, conduct meetings and develop their executive capacities. REGISTRATION is No Joke!

IF YOU ARE A YOUNG MAN BORN IN 1960, 1961, or 1962 YOU MAY SOON BE REQUIRED TO REGISTER WITH THE SELECTIVE SERVICE SYSTEM.

BEFORE YOU REGISTER, THINK ABOUT WHAT IT MEANS, AND THE OPTIONS OPEN TO YOU.

YOU CAN:

REGISTER by filling out a form with your name, address, birthdate and social security number at a U.S. post office, to be entered in a computer. No requests for deferments or exemptions would be considered at this time. If Congress later approves a return to the draft you could be called to report for induction into the armed forces.

SIGN UP AS A CONSCIENTIOUS OBJECTOR to war. Although Congress refused to provide a place on the registration form to indicate whether you are a C.O., you can write "I object to war" across the form. Selective Service will not consider claims of conscientious objectors until classification of registrants is resumed, but you can document your beliefs by writing a statement explaining your opposition to war and sending it to a group listed on this leaflet.

STAY HOME AND NOT REGISTER. During the Vietnam war an estimated 250,000 young men didn't register for the draft and were never identified. If identified, you may be treated as a "late registrant" and given another chance to register. Or you could be arrested and prosecuted. SEE BELOW.

RESIST the draft system by publicly refusing to register. Submit a letter in advance, or simply appear and state your refusal to cooperate. Nothing may happen right away. But you would be subject to arrest and prosecution. Maximum penalty for failure to comply with selective service law is five years in jail and-or $10,000 fine.

$8.7 MILLION RAISED

By Institute For Renovations. The Institute for Advanced Study held a successful bond sale last Thursday to raise $8.7 million for repairs and improvements.

The sale was held under the auspices of the New Jersey Educational Facilities Authority, an agency empowered under the Higher Education Act to issue tax exempt bonds for public and private colleges for construction and acquisition purposes. L. F. Rothschild & Co. of New York City was the successful bidder.

The Institute plans to use the proceeds of the sale for major repairs and remodeling to the apartments for members of the Institute, including structural repairs to roofs and installation of new energy efficient boilers and insulation for walls, windows, roofs and hot water lines. Eight new apartments will be constructed and four tennis courts are planned.

In addition, slate walks and patios on the grounds will be replaced and repaired. The current telephone system requiring three telephone operators is being replaced with a modern system requiring only one full time operator and a relief person. A general purpose computer, including the essential software applications, for operational and administrative purposes has been purchased and installed.

The bond proposition also lists "certain properties near the Institute's current land" that will be acquired, but according to Allen Rowe, associate director for administration and finance, these properties are the Eno Farm and adjacent land which has already been acquired. The bond issue is in no way related to the Institute's proposed development of this land, Mr. Rowe says.

A portion of the proceeds will be used for the refinancing of debt incurred in the construction of West Building, the Dining Hall and Social Science Library.

AUCTION IS PLANNED

For West Windsor Tracts. Approximately 80+ acres of prime level land off Route 1, West Windsor Township, Mercer County, will be sold at Public Auction on site, 1 p.m. July 26, 1980 by Max E. Spann Inc., realtors and auctioneers.

The sale will be offered in two parcels – No. 1 with 49+ acres and 1580' road frontage and No. 2 with 31+ acres and 1000' road frontage. Situated in the heart of New Jersey off Clarksville - Grovers Mill Road, the properties are located with major transportation arteries linking them to New York and Philadelphia.

REPRO FIRM OPENS

On Alexander Road. Rapid Graphics Company, a new professional reproduction firm, has opened for business on Alexander Road at Route 1. Rapid Graphics chairman, Peter Norback, said that the firm will offer diazo whiteprints for architects and engineers, and with its totally computerized vertical camera (the only one in the area), photostats, continuous tone stats, slide and negative film repros, and halftones.

Prior to moving to Lawrenceville, Mr. Norback worked and lived in New York City for seven years where he authored more than 20 books for major publishers. On a number of his projects, he produced mechanicals (camera-ready copy) for the publishers and learned various reproduction techniques.

When he got a book idea, he had to put a package or presentation together that would show the publisher what the finished book would look like without going to the expense or trouble of printing four-color covers and typesetting the entire book. "I used every possible reproduction technique to create my one-of-a-kind products," said Mr. Norback, "and a number of times, I had the equipment doing things it was never meant to do. I got pretty good at it, too," he added. "Sometimes the publisher would toy with the dummy book during most of my sales conversation trying to figure out how I did it."

In structuring his own reproduction company, Mr. Norback theorized that most clients would not want to be bothered with the tedious aspects of reproduction. They would want to have a company pick up the material to be reproduced and have that same company worry about producing the job in the quickest and most economical way.

Professionals Only. "The basic idea of Rapid Graphics," said Mr. Norback, "is to become a 'remote reproduction department' for each of our clients. We care about costs and deadlines as much as our clients do."

Rapid Graphics provides services for professionals only, and there will be no over-the-counter business. When a client wants reproduction copies, Rapid Graphics will have its representative pick up and deliver the work at no charge. The only restriction on the free pick up and delivery is each order must be more than $20; otherwise, a service charge of $3 will be added to the bill.

Rapid Graphics also will offer clients around the clock operation at no extra charge. "This goes along with our 'remote reproduction department' idea," said Mr. Norback. "There are times when repro work is needed the first thing Monday morning and the drawings won't be finished until Saturday afternoon. We plan to know our clients' schedules and will cover their reproduction needs completely."

Two full-time staff members help Mr. Norback. They are Karen Kroschwitz, the operations manager, and Tom Priester, the company's representative.

26 Stuart Girls Learn What It Means to Be Poor Helping Repair Homes of Appalachian Families

A group of girls from Stuart Country Day School have learned a lot about what it means to be poor, and what it means to give of yourself to help someone who is poor.

Twenty-six upper school students, accompanied by nine adults, spent a week in June in a small town in Kentucky with the Appalachia Service Project. This is the second year that a group from Stuart has joined in this non-denominational project, affiliated with the United Methodist Church, which uses volunteer labor to make substantial repairs on the homes of poor families in Appalachia.

Last year 14 girls, accompanied by four adults, spent a week in another county in Kentucky, and their enthusiasm for the project was so contagious that twice as many applied this year.

Stuart has a strong tradition of community service. As part of graduation requirements, each upper school student must spend a minimum of two hours a week in some sort of community service -- and many do much more than the minimum.

Girls volunteer at Merwick, the Medical Center, Recording for the Blind, Skillman Training School and the Children's Museum at the Historical Society. Within the school community, they tutor lower and middle school students and help in the cafeteria and office.

Sharing of Talents. For its part, the school has hired a community service director and provides transportation and released time from studies. There is also a Campus Ministry Program which gives the girls an opportunity to reflect on these service projects and attempts to teach students social awareness and the practical aspects of their faith -- whatever that faith is.

According to Sr. Fran De La Chapelle, head of the Upper School, the hope is that whatever work is done will become a true commitment on the part of the girls and that through it they will meet others of differing backgrounds and share the unique gifts each has received.

CARPENTRY SKILLS: A group of Stuart girls returned from a week making home repairs in Appalachia "very tired, very humble and with incredibly dirty laundry," as one mother put it. Here, Mary Reilly removes nails from the wooden slats of a shed which the girls took down for its building materials.

This philosophy is very much in keeping with the spirit of the Appalachian Service Project, which states that volunteers "respond to the requests for home repairs in a creative, selfless way. Our purpose is to share our talents, skills and caring with our fellow human beings in the spirit of love and acceptance."

Planning for the week in Kentucky began last fall and was coordinated by Bill Mehle, head of the Campus Ministry Program at Stuart. The girls were divided into five work crews and each work crew was responsible for earning $200 to contribute toward building materials. This year, the Stuart girls outdid themselves and raised $1,200 for this donation to the Project.

Mr. Mehle also held seminars on the culture and people of Appalachia and the reasons why the region is among the poorest in the country. Another seminar was held on carpentry skills, such as sheetrocking and spackling. Throughout, it was stressed that the work crews would be going into people's homes as guests and must therefore be sensitive to feelings of pride and privacy.

Three Generations Working. A grant for transportation was received from the Educational Development Fund of the Washington, D.C. Province of the Religious of the Sacred Heart, of which Stuart is a member. The nine accompanying adults included Mr. Mehle, his wife, Diane, and his father; Sr. De La, as Sr. De La Chapelle is affectionately known by the students; Jim Kilker, religion teacher, and his father; Sr. Maureen O'Halloran, head of the middle school; and Phyllis Thanner, a parent of one of the girls.

Thus there was a multi-generational aspect, as well as a cross-section of the school, in the accompanying adults, who worked along with the girls. Each group was assigned to a family whom they came to know as they were working on their home. In some cases the family members pitched in as well.

Not every family was poor. One fairly wealthy woman had become interested in the Project and had donated a chicken coop and a shed on her property to be used as building materials. A group worked three days taking down these structures, removing nails and sorting the resulting lumber into usable piles. The last two days they spent sheetrocking rooms at the home of a worndown pregnant woman with a disabled back and a handicapped son.

One group was assigned to a family of eight children, ranging in age from six months to 19 years. Their home had no running water and no plumbing, but there was electricity, and the family had a color TV and a tape recorder on which to record the singing of the older daughter and the mother playing her guitar.

Family Pitched In. The accumulated dust and dirt that had to be cleaned up before the girls could begin spackling and preparing rooms for painting, and the leaky condition of the house in general, were new experiences. But the boys in the family pitched in to work alongside the girls, and a bond was quickly established, according to Mr. Mehle.

Another group built a porch for an elderly man with cataracts, learning in the process that a porch is a social and recreational necessity in that part of the world. Still another group made repairs to the kitchen and roof of an elderly lady living alone, and found that simply sitting and talking to her was as important as the painting, plastering and porch building they also did.

In the evening the girls and their leaders bedded down on

Gilbert and Sullivan's 'Sorcerer' Provides 'Innocent Merriment' at Summer Theater

JOY TO SHARE: Aline Sangazure (Diane Grosjean) and Alexis Pointdextre (George Oliva) sing of the joys of marriage which they plan to impose magically on the entire village in "The Sorcerer."

I am tempted to say that in this case the real sorcerer is Director Dale Coye: first, for recognizing the source of innocent merriment in Gilbert and Sullivan's neglected operetta "The Sorcerer," and then for transplanting that merriment to the Murray Theatre stage for the benefit of Princeton Summer Theatre's patrons.

This is not to suggest that "The Sorcerer" is one of Gilbert and Sullivan's best. It was an early collaboration of the two, coming after "Trial by Jury" but before "H.M.S. Pinafore" and the rest of the well-known successes.

Savoyard fanatics – and you find them everywhere – will see in "The Sorcerer" foreshadowings of some ideas exploited in the later plays: such as the lovelorn older woman, the lyrical autobiography ("I was a fair young curate then"), the Gilbertian play on words ("philtre" and "filter"), the quintette concerned with matrimonial distribution, etc. Non-fanatics, i.e. those who can simply enjoy a work without comparing it with a whole series of others, will find plenty to delight them in the nonsense of "The Sorcerer" plot.

The plot is about love. Handsome Alexis, son of Sir Marmaduke Pointdextre, is at the pinnacle, being betrothed to the lovely Aline. But he is an idealist and wants everyone in the village to be equally happily married, regardless of wealth, age or social position.

So he engages John Wellington Wells, "dealer in magic and spells," to supply a love-potion whose power is such that whoever drinks it, after a 12-hour lapse, will fall permanently in love with whomever he (or she) next looks upon. (Married couples are immune, Mr. Wells explains: his is a strictly principled business.)

All this takes place around mid-day. The complications, after midnight, may well be imagined. Perhaps they are a shade too predictable, although some of the pairings are highly amusing; and perhaps that is one reason why "The Sorcerer" has been less popular than many of the later operettas.

Casting about for other reasons, I come up with two guesses. The straightening out of the complexities caused by Mr. Wells's philtre may be too simple. It lacks the ingenuity, for example, with which Ko-Ko escapes his fate in "The Mikado." And, unless this reviewer's memory fails him, it is the only time in any of the operettas where the solution depends on the death of a character. Too morbid? Maybe, but what a pyrotechnically spectacular death it is!

I am on shakier ground when I confess that the music seems to me less memorable than that of the better-known plays. It is pleasant throughout, but it contains no tune so compelling that people hum it as they leave the theatre. I should add, however, that the singing of this company is generally excellent, and that two voices are surpassingly lovely – that of Diane Grosjean as Aline and Carole Dell'Aquila as Constance, the humble pew-opener's daughter.

One of the pleasures in watching a resident company is that one week's stars may be next week's extras, and vice versa. This time two of Theatre Intime's recent brightest stars furnish the musical accompaniment to the show – Milly Massey at the piano and Kellie Easterling as page-turner, drummer and tambourine artist.

"Sorcerer"

direction of "Patience" a season ago, one is not surprised at the unflagging comic spirit and choice bits of business with which he has enlivened "The Sorcerer." Note, for example, Lady Sangazure's electrical twitch as Sir Marmaduke kisses her gloved hand; the extra syllable tacked on to one-syllable words as Alexis sings of his love in operatic style; Dr. Daly removing his curate's boater so that he can rest his fevered brow against a tree trunk. There is a precision about every gesture and movement which bespeaks a firm and knowing hand at the helm.

No slur is intended to an enthusiastic, well-trained company by mentioning a few exceptional performers. Stephen S. Sechrist is a delight as J. Wellington Wells, a difficult role that could fall flat without the nimble acrobatics of limbs, tongue and mind he brings to it.

George Oliva carries the caricature of a vain and wealthy do-gooder just far enough; he is an attractive hero as well as a subtle comedian. Leonard Galla, playing the curate in apparently the first pair of long trousers he ever owned, is irresistibly comic in a low key.

I have mentioned the singing of Carole Dell'Aquila and Diane Grosjean. More than that, they are, to use Dr. Daly's phrase, decidedly comely Ginny Strickland as Lady Sangazure and Dale Coye as Sir Marmaduke show how genteel lovers addressed each other, and then how they would have like to do it, in the nearest thing to a show-stopper among the musical numbers.

The latter song is helped enormously by mood-changing lighting. In fact, the Jane Kauffman-designed lighting throughout the play is varied and imaginative. Together with the setting and costumes designed by Stephen Sechrist and the choreography by Lynne Dennis, there is lots of eye appeal in "The Sorcerer."

Two weekends of performances remain, July 17-20 and 24-27, evenings at 8:00 and Sunday matinees at 2:30.

Enjoy!

—Herbert McAneny

A BRACE OF SLEUTHS

At Summer Cinema. A pair of films which offer widely divergent views on the life and times of the private detective in the cinema, Herbert Ross' "The Seven-Percent Solution" and Roman Polanski's "Chinatown," will comprise the double-feature presentation for the fifth week of McCarter Theatre's '80 series at Kresge Auditorium, today through Sunday.

In "The Seven-Percent Solution," adapted for the screen by Nicholas Meyer from his own novel, Robert Duvall (as Dr. Watson) discovers that his friend Sherlock Holmes (Nicol Williamson) is a cocaine addict. In a desperate attempt to save his life, Watson spirits him to Vienna and into the care of a new doctor, Sigmund Freud (Alan Arkin). Freud and Holmes subsequently join forces to solve a diabolical plot involving a red-headed woman (Vanessa Redgrave), a dishonorable German baron, an amourous Turkish Pasha, and a classic train chase through Austria in the best Orient Express tradition.

"Chinatown" is director Roman Polanski's homage to the Dashiell Hammett-Raymond Chandler private eye genre of the 30's and 40's, as well as a disillusioned vision of seedy, sunny pre-war (1937) southern California. What begins as a seemingly routine case for divorce lawyer J. J. Gittes (Jack Nicholson) mushrooms into a regional and personal scandal involving murderous machinations and power politics. Written by Robert Towne, "Chinatown" is a thriller in the best "film noir" tradition, in which kinks compound mystery, lies compound complexity, passion clouds detection, and nothing is really quite what it seems to be. As the protagonist, Nicholson is pitted against a wide variety of adversaries headed by John Huston as robber-baron Noah Cross, and also including Faye Dunaway as the sultry Evelyn Mulwray. "Chinatown" won ten Oscar nominations in 1974, and will be shown at Kresge in its original cinemascope ratio.

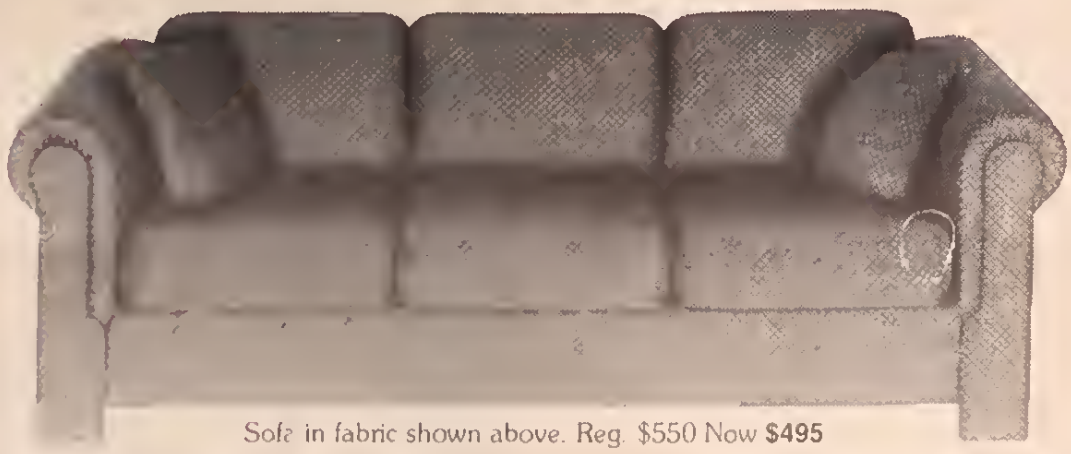
Our stock upholstery. It's the best buy for the money.



Sofa in fabric shown above. Reg. $550 Now $495

ALL STOCK UPHOLSTERY ON SPECIAL SALE THROUGH AUGUST 10.

There's a simple way to make upholstery. Use inexpensive materials, cut corners, and run it off a giant assembly line. And if you start with a decent design, it will probably look O.K. For a while. But it won't hold up. And it probably won't be very comfortable.

But there is another way.

It's called semi-custom made. And it doesn't use a mass production assembly line. But it does use various line techniques where they save money. And it also uses individual specialists who each work on a given task. Perfectly. But fast. And very efficiently. And this is how we make our exclusive stock upholstery.

Then, to further cut costs, we don't give you a huge choice of sizes. Or fabrics. Or options. All of which results in great savings.

Now that we've told you what you don't get, let us tell you what you do. Which is why we believe this is the best upholstery buy for the money anywhere.

THE FRAME.

Solid oak or maple (not cheaper softwood) is used for strength and to prevent warping. All joints are double doweled. The frame is screwed, glued and corner blocked to prevent cracking.

THE SPRINGS.

We use only 8 gauge, tempered steel sinuous springs. And each spring is attached front and back by special helical clips which actually keep the springs "springier" for a longer time. What's more these same springs are also used on the back (unlike most upholstery at even far higher prices). It takes time, but in time it proves its worth.

THE PADDING.

It's extraordinary. We not only use extra padding on the interior, but we also pad the exterior surfaces. This means that the wood frame is completely protected. The results? More comfort. And more durability. Because upholstery fabric stretched directly over hard wood edges wears out faster.

THE CUSHIONS.

Both seat and back cushions are made of a core of polyurethane foam wrapped in Dacron® polyester. When you sit, your weight is on the seat cushions. So these have a higher proportion of foam. The backs, which should be softer for more comfort, have more polyester. And all the cushions are cased in non-woven fabric inner bags to prevent the outer fabric from wrinkling or lumping.

THE SEWING.

Wherever possible (and this means 80% of the time), double needle stitching is used. It can take up to three times as long as single needle stitching, but it gives us very straight, very even seams. And the superior tailoring not only looks better, it wears far longer.

THE STYLES.

Because upholstery is a serious investment, we don't believe in fancy or faddish designs that look fine one year and dated the next. So we offer a limited number of classic modern pieces all with clean, uncluttered lines. You'll find chairs, loveseats, and sofas, plus ottomans, sleepers, and even a modular unit group. And, as we mentioned, options are available but kept at a minimum to cut down on costs.

THE FABRICS.

Not a huge choice. But a terrific one. And more than half of them, including our best-selling Haitian cotton, corduroy and velvet, are available at the lowest prices. And all fabrics are Scotchguarded® for extra protection at no extra cost.

Workbench stock upholstery. It's ours and we believe it's the best buy for your money anywhere.

WE CALL IT OUR STOCK UPHOLSTERY BECAUSE MOST STYLES ARE IN STOCK.

CONCERTS OFFERED

This Week at Westminster. Five musical events of interest to the public are scheduled this week at Westminster Choir College: a voice recital by Anne Ackley; the Choral Ensemble Concert presented by the Vocal Camp students; the weekly Hymn Sing; a piano recital by Marianne Lauffer; and the Summer Sing. All events are free.

Anne Ackley, soprano, will present a recital of diverse works spanning five centuries on Thursday at 8 in Bristol Chapel. The program includes songs by Dowland, Purcell, Berlioz, Wolf, Strauss, Poulenc and Rodrigo.

On Saturday, the high school students attending Westminster's Vocal Camp will present their choral ensemble concert under the direction of Allen Crowell. The choir will begin the program with Vivaldi's "Gloria" and Scarlatti's "Exultate Deo." It will then divide to perform several works as smaller ensembles, including classics by Hassler and Brahms as well as more contemporary works by Randall Thompson and John Rutter. The choir will combine again for Britten's "Jubilate Deo," Beck's "Song of Exaltation," and others. The concert will be held at Nassau Presbyterian Church beginning at 10:30 a.m.

Since completing her graduate studies at New England Conservatory, Ms. Ackley has been a soloist with the New York Schola Cantorum, the Springfield Symphony, and was at one time a member of the San Francisco Opera Chorus. A longtime Princeton resident, she has been active with the Princeton Opera Theatre, singing the part of Donna Elvira in its recent production of Mozart's "Don Giovanni." She has also been a soloist in Westminster's Summer Sings, in Bach's B Minor Mass conducted by Robert Shaw, and in the "Six Motets" of Bach, conducted by Wilhelm Ehmann.

Two events will occur on Monday. Marianne Lauffer will present a piano recital at 7 in Williamson Hall, playing works by Bach, Beethoven, Brahms and Chopin. At 8 the same evening, Alic Parker will direct this week's Hymn Sing in Bristol Chapel.

Finally, on Tuesday at 8 Elaine Brown will conduct the Summer Sing in readthroughs of Vivaldi's "Gloria" and Stravinsky's "Symphony of Psalms." Everyone, both singers and listeners, is invited to come. Scores will be available, or singers may bring their own.

Dr. Brown retired this year from her position as Director of Choral Activities at Temple University.

Playhouse producer, Ralph Miller will again repeat his performance as the manservant, Sancho Panza.

SUBSCRIBERS SOUGHT

By George Street Playhouse. The George Street Playhouse, professional regional theater in New Brunswick, is seeking new subscribers for its 1980-81 season.

The Playhouse recently ended its resubscription campaign, which included direct mailings and phonothons to 1979-80 subscirbers. All remaining seats are now available to new subscribers on a first-come, first-served basis.

"The resubscription campaign was extremely successful," said Subscriptions Manager Vanessa Kelly. "The playhouse is well on its way to attaining a goal of 4500 subscribers for 1980-81." Last season, the Playhouse counted 3300 subscribers.

Although the Playhouse received an excellent response from its previous subscribers, there is no lack of good seats remaining. Added performances on Wednesdays at noon and Saturdays at 4 have increased the Playhouse's subscriber capacity. Good seats are available for these new performances as well as Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday, and Sunday nights and Sunday afternoons. Saturday night is sold out, and limited seating is available for Friday night.

The 1980-81 season features two World Premieres, "Parley-Parley" by David Richmond and "Viaduct" by Aleen Malcolm, the gospel musical "Purlie," co-produced by the Playhouse and Crossroads, New Jersey's professional Black theater company, "Two for the Seesaw" by William Gibson, and two theater classics, "Death of a Salesman" by Arthur Miller and "Candida" by George Bernard Shaw. Show times are Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday nights at 8, Fridays and Saturdays at 8:30 and Sundays at 7:30. Matinee performances are Wednesdays at noon, Saturdays at 4 and Sundays at 3.

For more information, or to reserve a subscription, call Rina Saltzman at (201) 246-7717 Monday through Friday, noon to 5 p.m., or Vanessa Kelly at (201) 846-2895, Monday through Friday 9-5. The Playhouse is located at 414 George St. in New Brunswick.

EXHIBITION TO OPEN

At N.J. State Museum. "The Scientific Illustrations of Kenneth L. Gosner," an exhibition of three dozen finely detailed drawings created for nature textbooks, magazines and field guides, will open in the lower level gallery of the New Jersey State Museum on July 19. It will continue through October 26.

Curator of zoology at The Newark Museum, Gosner is a versatile artist who is equally at home with pen-and-ink, pencil, scratch board or watercolors.

He has illustrated more than 20 books, and he has also written numerous articles for scientific journals. His technical volume identifying marine and estuarine invertebrates has been adopted widely as the most authoritative reference work on the subject.

Combining his talents as a field artist with his expertise in marine ecology, he has been an active participant in a number of research expeditions in Caribbean and South Atlantic coastal waters.

Konrad Retrospective. With the opening of an "Adolf Konrad Retrospective" exhibition in the main galleries of the State Museum last month, summer visitors to the Trenton facility have an exceptional opportunity to observe the painterly style of one of New Jersey's best known contemporary artists. The exhibition will continue through September 14.

Mr. Konrad, who was born in Germany in 1915, came to the United States in 1927 and settled in Elizabeth, N.J. A year later his family moved to Newark where he studied painting at the Newark School of Fine and Industrial Art. He has continued to live and work in New Jersey where he is now a resident of Asbury and serves as artist in residence at Somerset County College.

His work has been shown in major exhibitions at the Metropolitan Museum of Art, the National Academy of Design, the Whitney Museum, Butler Institute and the Pennsylvania Academy of Fine Arts; and in New Jersey he is represented in collections of the State Museum, The Newark Museum and Montclair Art Museum.

The "Retrospective," which was organized by Montclair Art Museum and shown there earlier this year, includes 50 paintings and a dozen drawings covering a span of thirty years. Most involve such favorite Konrad subjects as Victorian houses, tree houses, city scenes, figures and still lifes. Several are being shown publicly for the first time.

CONTE'S IS UPSET

In Women's Softball. Conte's Bar's hopes for a perfect season in the Princeton Slow Pitch Women's Softball League ended last week when Ivy Inn scored three runs in the last inning for an 11-10 upset.

The loss tightened the standings; with three games left to play, three games separate the top four teams. In games this Wednesday (6:15 p.m.) at Community Park, Mike's Tavern vs. Koffee Kup; Andy's Tavern vs. Yamasaki; Conte's vs. Diplomats and Ivy Inn vs. Rusty Scupper.

Both teams got off to an early start in the Conte-Ivy Inn contest. Ivy scored four runs off hits by Kim Davidson, Laura Decker, Mary Ellen Hirst and Kathy Wilcox. Conte's scored three runs in its half of the first on consecutive singles by Carol Ann Mazzella, Laine Ivan and Harriet Staub.

Ivy then added a single run in the third, and three more in the fourth, to go ahead, 8-3. Providing the offense in this stretch were Bonnie Kerch, Hirst (4-for-4 overall), Marty Stockton, Cathy Cruser and Gretchen Kappes.

Conte's, however, came right back with five in the fifth to tie it on a 2-run homer by Staub, who had three hits, and hits by Dee Pearce, Sellie Toscano, Nancy Laughlin and Nancy Pesce.

When Conte's plated two more runs in the sixth off hits by Ivan and Staub to take a 10-8 lead, it appeared as if its unbeaten string would remain intact. But Ivy led off the final inning with consecutive hits by Hirst, Stockton, Wilcox, and Heidi Kappes and a sacrifice fly to tie the score at 10. With one out, Gretchen Kappes followed with a single to send home Wilcox with the winning run. Stockton got the win.

"We beat the best," said Ivy manager Dick McCluskey, owner of Ivy Inn.

Koffee Kup climbed to within a game of first place with a 29-0 rout of winless Rusty Scupper. The game was stopped after five innings under the recently-adopted "15 run" rule which states if one team is leading by 15 or more runs after five innings have been played, the contest is ended.

Pacing the Kup attack was Judi Grisham (4-for-5), one home run); Vernell Carr (one home run), two triples and a double); Spring Taylor (three hits, one homer) and winning pitcher Hester Phox, who had three hits. Meghan McHugh had two hits for the losers.

In another "15-run" contest, Mike's Tavern trounced Andy's Tavern, 19-3, scoring eight runs in the second, six in the fourth and five in the fifth. Mike's was led at the plate by Clare Baxter (2-for 4), Debbie Ficarro, Kim Pope, and Joan Modzelewski. Winning pitcher Lorraine Duthie was aided by nine Andy errors.

For Andy's, Michelle Morgan tripled home a pair of runs and Carol Auster was 2-for-2.

Yamasaki Swim Club raised its record to 7-4 with a 15-6 pounding of the Diplomats.

For the victors, Karen Petruska had three hits, Ree Smurthwaite a triple, Susan Packer a home run and Sue Anderson a double. Anne Knudson scored three runs.

Andrea Fowler homered and Sallie McEwen doubled for the Diplomats.

POST 76 REBOUNDS

Wtth 16-2 win. "The kids deserve a lot of credit for coming back. We were beaten pretty badly Saturday night, and it's always easy to give up," commented Princeton Post 76 coach Pete Millington.

His team had just trounced Ewing, 13-6, Sunday, after having been routed 16-2 by Lawrence the night before. The win ended a three-game losing streak for Post 76 in Mercer County American Legion action.

Princeton scored ten runs between the third and fifth innings to take a 10-1 lead against Ewing. It pounded out 16 hits, including a three-run homer by Judd Petrone, who had three hits and drove in four runs.

See if you can answer this baseball puzzler ... Instead of having a first baseman, second baseman, shortstop, third baseman, and 3 outfielders, could a team use, say, only a first baseman in the infield, and then put 6 men in the outfield during a game? ... Answer is yes ... The official rules say that outside of the pitcher and catcher, the other 7 fielders may play ANYWHERE as long as they're in fair territory.

Tom Scibetta had a two-run homer among his four hits, while Kevin Phox added three hits and Brent Robinson and Danny Miller had two hits apiece. "We were all stroking the ball," agreed Millington. "Even the kids who didn't get hits, hit the ball hard."

Post 76 pitcher Andy Kulinsky, who got the win, was breezing along for 5 and two-thirds innings when he ran out of steam and gave up five straight hits and three Ewing runs. When Ewing opened up the seventh with a leadoff triple, Millington called on John Majorwitz, who finished up.

Saturday night, in the only game it will play under the lights this season, Post 76 trailed Lawrence, 14-0 after four innings. "We just didn't play well; we weren't in the game at all--and Ewing hit the ball hard," said Millington.

Winning pitcher Bob Krepp (5-1) limited Princeton to three hits and connected for three of Lawrence's 16 hits. Petrone was charged with the loss.

On Thursday, Hamilton's Steve White (3-1) spun a four-hitter, as Hamilton blanked Princeton, 4-0. Robinson had two of Princeton's four hits but the losers never threatened. Scott Webber took the loss.

"We hit him (White) all right but we didn't hit anything hard," observed Millington. "He didn't appear to be overpowering--he only had a couple of strikeouts--but he must have been doing something right."

In upcoming games, Princeton will host the Broad Street Park Browns in a contest Thursday evening at Princeton University's Clarke Field and will travel to Pennington Saturday for a 1:45 contest with Hopewell Post 339.

Sunday, it will oppose Hightstown at the Peddie School diamond.

Roma Eterna defeated Italian-American, 14-5, as Jack Zahner fanned 13, was 4-for-5 at bat and had two RBIs. Mark Nathan also wielded a big bat for Roma. Jerry Dismukes had a triple and John Berry was 5-for-5 for Italian American.

SPRINGDALE TRIO WIN

In State Gold Tournament. In the Garden State Gross Round Robin Tournament held last week at Somerset Hills, Betty Whelan was the second Robin winner, Ruth Thornton the third and Kate Litvak the fifth. All are members of Springdale Golf Club.

The tournament consisted of six "Robins," eight players each, playing match play. The first Robin was won by Mary Lampheimer of Somerset Hills, a former Curtis Cup player.

JERSEY CORN 17-1

In Mercer County League. The Sweet Jersey Corn A. C. women's softball team of Princeton won three games last week in the Mercer County Women's "A" League, its eighth, ninth and tenth in a row, to raise its record to 17-1.

Scotty's Restaurant, which had handed the Corn its only setback, was the first victim. After yielding three runs in the first inning, the Corn defense stiffened and the offense chipped away for single runs in the first, third and fifth innings to tie the score. Consecutive singles in the bottom of the seventh by Ree Smurthwaite, Pam Carone, Marianne Smith and Dee Pearce gave SJC a 4-3 victory.

Next came back-to-back wins over defending League champs Guys & Dolls, 8-3 and 14-5. The key hit in the first game was Dee Pearce's grand slam home run, her sixth round-tripper of the season. The next night, after Guys & Dolls had taken a 3-2 lead in the third, the Corn erupted for nine runs on ten hits in the fourth inning to seal the victory. The big inning featured two hits each by Judi Grisham and Maureen Nosal.

The three wins sets up a key clash against second-place Three Seasons (15-3) on Thursday evening. A win would clinch the league championship for the Corn. The game will be played at Mercer County Park, Field 9 at 6:30.

This weekend the Corn will travel to Ringoes to compete in the eighteen-team East Amwell Suds Tournament. It will be SJC's first tournament appearance since capturing the championship of the 21-team ASA Early Bird Tournament in June.

sleeping bags in a former school in the little town of Rodgers, Ky., along with a group of young people from Minnesota. In the evenings they gathered to discuss the experiences of the day, and to ponder their new awareness of how other lives are lived. They also sang, played music and compared regional vocabularies. On the last night, the groups invited their families to join in one great big picnic at Natural Bridge State Park.

The reaction of the girls to the project was one of outright enthusiasm. "I loved it," exclaimed Chris Leahy, a junior from Jefferson Road. "I had such a good time seeing the family and how they lived. I could have stayed the whole summer."

Friendly People. Mibs Southerland, a Western Way sophomore, commenting on the little town with its one general store and post office, said, "Everyone was really friendly and people accepted us. It really opened your eyes," she added.

For Christine Bugbee, for whom this was a second year in Appalachia, there was the added dimension of a two-hour drive into another county to visit last year's family. She confessed that the "blatant poverty " of this family and the amount of clean-up that needed to be done had brought her last year to the verge of throwing up. However, the crew became very close to the family at what she now realizes was one of the lowest points of their lives.

She was half expecting to see their work in helping this family "down the drain," but to her joy she found that because of the improvements the group made to the house, the family had been able to sell it and find another and better house, which was spotlessly clean, with throw rugs and curtains and a few pieces of furniture. To be able to bring this report back to the groups working in Rodgers was an added bonus.

In addition to the three quoted above, Stuart girls participating in the Project included Alison Bates, Trisha Crowley, Tina deTuro, Kathy Lang, Beth McGee, Tracy Magruder, Zoe Ostergren, Mary Reilly, Robin Sellery, Stephanie Mulinos, Carolyn Moran, Liz Keuffel, Jane Mellow, Cathy Sweetland, Katie Westbrook, Leslie Rose, Maureen Leak, Mary Dougherty, Desie Raywood, Koren Thanner, Maggie O'Hara, Karen Wasileski and Veronique Gillet.

"It was a really powerful experience for the girls," Mr. Mehle said. In Princeton, a teenager becoming aware of the need for a commitment to a more just social order, often asks "What can I do to make a difference?" he noted. Participation in the Appalachia Service Project is one answer to that question.

VOLUNTEERS SOUGHT

For Historic Sites Survey. The historic sites survey of Princeton has been underway since mid-June. Volunteers have been assisting the professional survey staff with background research. But more volunteers are needed if the rich lode of information on Princeton's buildings is to be fully tapped.

"We've been very lucky so far," says Robert Craig, field director for the survey. "One of our volunteers, Amy Johanson, has been studying preservation in the undergraduate program at Goucher College. She's put together a list of about 75 buildings in Princeton that have been moved from their original locations." The list, according to Mr. Craig, is based on one compiled by the late M. Halsey Thomas, former archivist of the university.

Sharon Staudinger, another volunteer with a degree in history, sorted through and xeroxed a series of Sanborn maps. The Sanborn maps, originally made for fire insurance purposes, are virtually a decade by decade record of Princeton's buildings in the late 19th and early 20th century.

Ms. Staudinger and Lucia Hastings have also been compiling a list of buildings mentioned in 'The Princeton Recollector." The task is so big, however, that additional help is needed. Volunteers are also needed to review building permits in the Borough Engineer's office and to look at some of the subdivision maps in the Township Engineer'a office. Other tasks include interviewing realtors and construction firms that have been active in Princeton for a number of years.

"We have a host of research projects we would like to see incorporated into the survey," says Mr. Craig. "We'd like to work with volunteers to lay out a research program that fits their interests and provides useful information for the survey."

Meanwhile the professional survey staff, consisting of Mr. Craig, Donna Harris and Mary Joan Simmons, has almost completed the first phase of the survey. This consists of a streetscape survey of the Borough, defining the present and historic character of each block. The next step will be to fill out detailed forms recording a description and historic background for outstanding and typical buildings.

In the Township the team will be looking at historic areas, such as those around the Kingston Mill and at Stony Brook, as well as accounting for all buildings shown on the 1849 and 1876 maps of Mercer County.

ceton High School. Spectators are welcome at any time, but are especially encouraged for the final rounds next Friday, July 25, at the University Pagoda Courts.

In charge of this year's Boys Open are Mrs. Carl Moore and Mrs. Frederick Kenny. Mrs. Robert Speir is responsible for housing, Mrs. Robert Thompson for transportation. Anyone able to assist the transportation committee is urged to call Mrs. Thompson at 799-4767.

Other members of the tournament committee include Linda Brady, Norma Swale and Millie Hayes.

Free Clinic Planned. In conjunction with the Boys Open, Prince Manufacturing will offer a special free clinic.

The Clinic will stress physical fitness as an important factor in playing tennis and in everyday life. Starting off the hour, a demonstration will be conducted using the Prince ball machine to show the ease with which individuals can condition themselves to higher degrees of physical fitness. A 20 minute program of monitored exercises, drills and pulse-checking will be conducted.

Following the demonstration, participants will be able to hit with the Prince ball machine and check the fluctuation in their pulse rate.

Under the direction of Marty Devlin, Prince Product Manager and former athletic director and tennis coach at Rider College, it will be held Monday from 4:30 to 5:30 at the University Pagoda Courts.

Participants should bring their racket and sneakers. Those without a tennis racket will be able to borrow one at the clinic.

NAVY EDGES GOLD

In Summer Lacrosse. Kip Sparrow and Bobby Campbell combined for five goals and three assists to lead Navy to a 7-6 win over Gold last week in the Princeton Summer Lacrosse league.

Alex Versfeld and Tom Gates also scored for Navy, which led, 3-1, after the first period. For Gold, Bob Littell scored twice and Jay Budd contributed a goal and three assists. Matt Kinan, Greg Hirsch and Ted Mellor also scored.

Former Princeton High standout Ian Broadwater poured in five goals to lead Orange to a 9-4 victory over Red. Adding single tallies were Chris Harford, David Karch, John Hutter and Bill Munn.

Scoring for Red, which was blanked in the first and third periods by the Orange defense, were David Lewis, Allen Fitzpatrick, Alex Wert and David Rosenbloom.

In earlier action, Red ran over Green, 11-1, and Blue shaded Orange, 6-5.

David Rosenbloom with five goals was the big gun for Red. He received support from Alex Wert and David Barnes, who each netted a pair of goals, while Allen Fitzpatrick and Jeff Russell scored the game's first two goals. Hal Kokes tallied Green's lone score in the third period.

John Morris and Kevin Ellis each scored in the first period as Blue made that one-goal margin stand up for the remaining three periods against Orange. Morris finished with three goals, Ellis with two. Bob Flippin had the victors' sixth goal.

Scoring one goal each for Orange were Tim Brush, Chris Harford, Mark Greenland, Grayson Ferrante and John Drezner. Drezner of Princeton Day School had the only assist credited to the losers.
